As Pollution rose to unprecedented rate, the classes continue in full force online

Post Diwali, Delhi pollution rose to an unprecedented levels, disrupting the functioning of schools. Protecting children—who fall into one of the most vulnerable categories—from harmful pollutants was crucial, but so was ensuring their education remained unaffected, especially for those from disadvantaged communities.

During this time, KHUSHII's educators ensured that children's learning continued seamlessly. They divided students into groups and conducted online classes to maintain their learning levels, ensuring that school closures did not hinder their studies. While online classes have become the new normal, vulnerable communities continue to face challenges such as the digital divide and lack of resources. Through our mobilizers, we connect with every household in these communities, raising awareness among families about their child's educational needs and ensuring no child is left behind.

In November, Real Madrid Foundation group organised a transformative participatory learning event focused on social inclusion for children and adolescents in vulnerable situations in Cambodia.

The event was designed to foster mutual learning, and innovation in social inclusion. Participants engaged in various activities aimed at building relationships and exchanging ideas, ultimately leading to the creation of Communities of Practice (CoPs) for ongoing collaboration. KHUSHII's very own Director Programmes, Meeta Misra attended the event.
